It is important for the country as a whole and for the cooperative sector itself that these fears be laid, either by convincing refutation or by courageous exposure and correction of sins against the body politic, if such are being committed. It cannot be gainsaid that the cooperatives and even the kibbutzim have been losing what has been one of their principal assets, namely, their moral leadership in the economic field. It is questioned, for example, why the transport co-operatives should continue to be exempt from taxation when they exhibit some of the characteristic stigma of a capitalist enterprise. Now is the time for the Histadrut itself to examine its economic policies and take stock of its moral position. The task ahead is not one for a single sector of the community to tackle. Inexact reports on the attitude of the Manu-facturers Association to the Clothing and Footwear Rationing Order-have appeared in the Press and we are taking this opportunity to repeat the commu-rique handed out to the Press at the time:

"A delegation representing the praesidium of the Manufacturers Association, composed of Messrs. Y. Araten, S. Bejarano, Y. Trubovitz and A. Kalir was received by the Minister of Supply and Rationing on Thursdey, August 3 in connection with the Rationing Order for Textiles and Leather. The delegation called the Minister's attention to the dire effect which this Order may have in store for industrial production.

"The delegation proposed that a responsible committee be set up of representatives of conomic interests and of the Ministry of Supply and Rationing together with Members of the Knesset, to work out a plan for implementing rationing taking into consideration the needs of the economy, in order to avert any shock to the economy in general or any reduction in the country's production in particular.
